<sup>1</sup> When finalizing the mortgage, you can also take out life insurance. With life insurance, your relatives receive a sum of money if you pass away. They can use this amount, for example, to partially or fully pay off the mortgage.

<sup>2</sup> When finalizing the mortgage, you can also opt for payment protection insurance, also known as 'woonlastenverzekering'. Due to payment protection insurance, you may receive benefits for your housing expenses if you become disabled or unemployed.

What can this financial service provider do for you in the future?

Whenever there are changes in your personal situation, always get back to a financial service provider. These changes might mean that the mortgage/insurance no longer suits your situation. For example, due to changes in your family situation or income. Then, you may be paying too much or taking on more risk than you would like.

You can always go back to a financial service provider for an orientation conversation. If there is a significant change in your mortgage and/or insurance, the financial service provider or provider itself will contact you without charging a fee.

Does this financial service provider also offer maintenance services? <sup>3</sup>

For more information about other services in the future, please visit the website of your financial service provider.

<sup>3</sup>With maintenance services, a financial service provider can monitor changes that may require adjustments to your mortgage or insurance.
